Tomorrow, Friday, Is

REMNANT DAY.

And we direct attention to the collection of remnants for this week as being more than usually attractive, both from a price standpoint and the high character of several classes of goods represented.

Attention is also called to the fact that many of the lots are too small to mention in detail, and, as such lots frequently cost in the best bargains and are sold first, early inspection is advised.

THREE ITALIANS KILLED.

Following a series of crimes attributed to so-called "Black Hand" societies in the Italian quarter of New Orleans, one of the worst tragedies yet connected with that section took place early yesterday, when three Italians were shot to death.

According to the police these men were killed as a result of an attempt to extort money from Pietro Gioaccona, a wealthy Italian wine merchant, of New Orleans. Gioaccona and his son told the police that these men had frequently bought wine from them by the barrel and had invariably refused to pay for it.

According to their story the three forced them to ship a barrel of wine to a point in Louisiana Tuesday, and returned early yesterday and ordered them to prepare a meal. The elder Gioaccona suspected that trouble would ensue, and hid a repeating rifle near the table. When one of the visiting Italians drew a heavy revolver and ordered them to produce money and valuables, the elder Gioaccona answered with a shot from the rifle. The man he fired at fell dead and the other two attempted to escape. One was killed before he had gotten 10 feet from the table. The other reached a staircase, only to receive a bullet in his brain.

He started down the steps, his body falling into the courtyard below.

Only one of the Italians who was killed has been identified. He is known to the police by the name of Barracca.

Yesterday another Italian, badly wounded, was found in a shed near the Gioaccona home. He was identified as one of those who had attended Gioaccona's feast, the only one who escaped with his life. His wound is dangerous.

The police asked Gioaccona if, in desperation, after numerous "Black Hand" schemes had been practiced on him, he had not invited the Italians to his home for the purpose of squaring accounts. This Gioaccona stoutly denied, saying he had no intention of firing on his guests until it became necessary for him to protect his home.

Gioaccona is regarded as one of the wealthiest Italians in the south. His home, where the shooting occurred, was occupied by General Beauregard when that section was the most fashionable of the old French quarters, and is one of the most historic spots in New Orleans.

Stomach Troubles.

Many remarkable cures of stomach troubles have been effected by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at W. F. Crighton & Co. and Richard F. Gibson.

DEFENDS RAILROADS.

At the annual dinner of the Alumni Association of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., yesterday L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Company and chairman of the executive committee of the Kansas City Southern Railroad, protested against attacks on the railroads.

"For a number of years the railroads have been subjected to a great concerted attack," said Mr. Loree. "The skill of the employees, the character of the officers and the honesty of the capitalization have alike been impugned. Back of all stands the sinister threat to segregate from all other forms of investment the investment in railroad securities, to assert over such investment a big-handed control, assuming no responsibility for losses, but limiting any possible gains to a saving-bank rate of interest. Should this effort be successful it is certain to degrade the employees, to drive out the capable officers and to lead to the refusal of investors to make new contributions to capital. It is such an effort was brought about the consequences to the community would be more far-reaching than one likes to contemplate."

LEMOINE "DIAMONDS."

The Lemoine diamond case came to a sensational ending with an unexpected climax in Paris yesterday afternoon. Lemoine has fled, and his famous formula for the manufacture of diamonds is a fantastic farce. Henry Lemoine was taken into custody a few months ago on the charge of having secured money from John Werber, the English diamond merchant, on false pretenses.

Lemoine claimed he could manufacture diamonds, and it is alleged that on this representation he secured a large sum of money from Mr. Werber. Lemoine was released to give him an opportunity to vindicate himself by exhibiting stones of his own manufacture. When the case was called in Paris yesterday, Lemoine did not appear, and it was announced that he had fled.

In the presence of Werber the court opened the envelope said to contain Lemoine's formula. The paper inside was read, but it contained only a jumble of fantastic and senseless phrases.
